Founder of the Joy Foundation and the Society for Sound Healing, Kita Keiichiro is the developer of the Kita Biosonic Peace Machine. Keiichiro Kita learned through personal experience and health challenges that the body has the ability to heal itself given supportive conditions. He discovered the healing power of sound early in his life and was led to work with a company in Japan that specialized in planning and designing environmentally comfortable spaces for listening to music. He was challenged to develop products for listening to music with the whole body. After many years he developed the Kita Biosonic Peace Machine which delivers specific frequencies to the tissues and cells of the entire body, through the acupuncture points and meridian pathways.
